

J.A. Air Center Partners with Powder Puff Pilot

Illinois Pilot Shop Offers Wide Range of Feminine-Friendly Pilot Gear

Aurora, Colorado: March 24, 2011 – Powder Puff Pilot, a Denver-based designer and web retailer of gear and accessories for women pilots, announced its partnership with the J.A. Air Center Pilot Shop, located at the Aurora Municipal Airport (KARR) about 40 miles west of Chicago. The pilot shop now offers a wide range of Powder Puff Pilot products in its web retail store, including pink aviation headsets, pink pilot logbooks, patches, buttons, and aviation picture books for kids.

“J.A. Air Center has been a retailer of selected Powder Puff Products for over a year,” said Sue Hughes, who founded Powder Puff Pilot in 2008, “so I was thrilled when they approached me about offering all our products online. I’m excited that this partnership will reach people who wouldn’t otherwise be exposed to our products.”

Powder Puff Pilot was recently distinguished as a Woman-Friendly Aviation Business. Certified by Women of Aviation Worldwide, Powder Puff Pilot was recognized for its support of community outreach programs toward girls and women, and for actively promoting aviation to women. It recently sponsored Women of Aviation Worldwide Week, offering prizes for pilots and ground volunteers who helped introduce thousands of females to aviation with free flights from March 7 to 13.
